PLEASE PRAY FOR OUR WRCC FAMILY AND FRIENDS

- Jennifer Earley has been given the diagnosis of Lupus. She says although it's surprising, they've been monitoring her for possible Lupus for years and it explains her long term symptoms.
- Maddy Kurschat was to receive genetic testing last week to see if an aggressive medication would be able to help her liver enzymes come down. Her levels have been difficult to keep down and she can't receive the new medicine unless it works genetically for her.
- David Sitter has been granted parole and they would like our continued prayers for him.
- Pam Cramer was to have had a CT scan last Thursday on her kidneys to check out a cyst found on them earlier in the year.

Question of the Month

What does it mean for me to hunger and thirst for righteousness?

Budget Report

Contributions YTD as of September - $113,879 YTD Budget - $127,494

Elder Spotlight—Adam Joseph

The question of the month is "What does it mean for me to hunger and thirst for righteousness?" First, I am defining righteousness as having a right relationship with God and man. This is the state that God wants for us as humans, and Jesus' teaching often touches on how to do right by God and people.

To develop a deep desire for righteousness, we need to look outside of ourselves (and try to see as God sees). Allowing God's Word to soak into our minds and hearts is part of this process. We begin to see the people around us, how they are affected by our words and actions and how we may need to make those relationships right. When we see others as God sees them (as image bearers), we love and have compassion for them.

In the same way, seeing myself as God sees me (a beloved child, re-deemed and brought into the family), creates in me a strong desire to humble myself and allow God through His Spirit and His Word to shine a light in every dark corner of my life and mind, so that I might be conformed to the person He created me to be.
