Engage the WORD

Sept 7 | Genesis 1:1-2:3

Read Genesis 1:1-2:4a, and then spend time reflecting on the following questions:

Reflect: After God created all things, He evaluated His creations. After creating the heavens, the earth, the skies, the stars, and everything in between, God called everything good, not flawless, but good.

So why do we sometimes expect things to be “perfect”?
How can you see people and creations around you as good instead of perfect?

[illegible]

ACROSS

2. A sacred resemblance, bestowed uniquely upon humanity.
4. Marks the turning of each day in the rhythm of creation.
8. A divine command tied to flourishing, not just survival.
10. The deep over which God's Spirit hovered.
11. Paired with earth, this word names the vast expanse above.
12. The name given to the rhythm of shadow and stillness.

DOWN

1. A word for beings that move, breathe, multiply, and thrive.
3. The unfolding of divine order from formless void.
5. This covered everything before boundaries and light.
6. Invisible presence moving over the deep before anything began.
7. Dry land gathered from the chaos of deep waters.
9. It pierced the void before sun or stars were formed.

Use the clues to fill in the words above.

Words can go across or down.
